Col. Stone's Witty Retort

Col. Stone, of Tennessee, when he was running for governor, met for the first time a delegate from one of the rural counties to the state convention. The colonel said: "I am glad to meet you. I have known your father for many years, but never had the pleasure of your acquaintance. I see, however, that the son is better-looking than the father." "Look here, colonel," said the delegate, "you need not be flattering me up, for I am out and out for Barkdale for governor, although the old man is for you." "Why, I simply find you better-looking than your father, but I did not say you had half as much sense as he has," returned the colonel. Those standing around roared with laughter in which the delegate good-humoredly joined.

FEDDING WHEAT TO HOGS.

Experiment of a Kansas Farmer Has Encouraging Results.

Feeding wheat to hogs with a profit is a new thing in Kansas, but that is what is being done in Harper county, and the chances are that farmers generally will dispose of their surplus wheat in that way in the future. Already the experiments made are attracting a great deal of attention, and farmers who have a surplus of wheat on hand will fully satisfy themselves in this matter before disposing of it at the present prices.

W. H. H. Freeman, a leading farmer of Harper county, has been experimenting, and the results are not only satisfactory, but surprising. Last week he marketed six hogs, which were just six months old. They averaged 225 pounds each. Two months ago he commenced feeding them ground wheat. He reports that wheat excels corn as a pork producer. He soaked the ground wheat from six to twelve hours. The trough is always cleaned before feeding. A little ash, salt and coal are used as appetizers, but not mixed with the slop. One of the pigs gained twenty-seven pounds in thirteen days.

Mr. Freeman says that when hogs are selling at 4 cents wheat will bring 80 cents, and that he has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that sixty pounds of wheat will produce twenty pounds of pork. Under such conditions he says, the farmers will make money by feeding their surplus wheat to hogs. Many farmers in southern Kansas are buying hogs, and will test Mr. Freeman's experiment fully.

The Reconciliation of Bismark and the Kaiser.

Emperor William of Germany has probably done the most popular thing since his ascension to the throne, in inviting Prince Bismark to visit him in his palace, and in receiving him with peculiarly distinguished honors. It did not take the young man, who by accident of birth sits on the throne of his grandfather, a very great length of time to discover he had made a wild mistake when he broke with the man who was great enough to create his empire for him. William has found that Bismark, stripped of power and living in retirement, was of vastly more importance than the entrance of the palace and saluted the brown old cheek of the foremost man in Germany. All Berlin turned out to welcome the old man to the city. The reconciliation appears complete.

From Danville.

The Grand Jury failed to indict Jason Bickert for the alleged killing of John Drye at Junction City. Mrs. Rebecca Beddow, a white woman who runs a "blind tiger," was indicted for perjury. There were 15 indictments against whisky sellers.

Commissioners from Maryland and Virginia will meet in Washington for the purpose of settling the oyster war which has troubled the States for years.

What's the Matter in Magoffin?

State Inspector Gardner has submitted to Governor Brown an important report regarding the assessment of non-resident lands, in which he makes serious charges against some of the officials of Magoffin county. In that county he says there were 627 fraudulent lists of non-resident lands reported by the Assessor, and one alleged tract of land, which has been sold to the State eleven times, upon investigation was shown to be a figment of the imagination. According to the Inspector's figures there is something very rotten in Magoffin, and the case has been turned over to Attorney General Hendrick.

Ben D. Bell, of Lexington, and ten others heirs have inherited an estate of $150,000 by the death of his sister, Mrs. Stanberry in New York. Mrs. Mary V. Young, of this city, is the sister of the late Mrs. Stanberry.

MRS. JAMES W. TATE

On motion of ex-Chief Justice Holt in the Woodford Circuit Court Saturday, Judge Cantrell made an order empowering Mrs. James W. Tate, wife of the absconding State Treasurer, to sell a small tract of land in Woodford county. Mrs. Tate is ill and needs the money, and to raise it she was obliged to dispose of the little property which she owned.

Rev. Everett Gill, of Missouri, who finishes his theological course in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary next June, was called to the pastorate of the Baptist church of this city last Wednesday evening. He accepted and entered upon his duties Sunday. Mr. Gill is a highly educated, well trained and talented young man, an earnest, attractive and forcible speaker who will doubtless be a power for good here. He will receive a hearty welcome.

In the Court of Appeals, Saturday the case of "The New Farmers' Bank's Trustees vs. New Farmers' Bank's Receiver, Montgomery; appeal dismissed for want of prosecution."

Hard Times Years Ago.

The other day I came across an old copy of the Weekly Kentucky Yeoman, dated Frankfort, Ky., July 7, 1842. One item it contains would indicate that the hard times which we are now complaining are really times of prosperity and plenty compared with the hard times of '42. It is as follows:

As one of the instances of hard times, we give the following statement of bona fide sales of property on twelve months credit, which recently took place at an administrator's sale in Woodford county, viz: One cow, formerly valued at $25, sold for $1. Two mules, worth a year ago $45 each sold for $1.50 each; a good horse sold for $7; another fine horse, which cost sold for $40; a three-year-old filly $170, which sold when one year old for $10, now brought $3.

It is said that in the fall of 1824 all the crops of 160 acres of land, and a considerable quantity of live stock besides, belonging to Simson Bohannon, who lived in what is now the Fish neighborhood, were sold under execution, and that the entire sale amounted to only $40, so don't complain of hard times and low prices any more.—Woodford Sun.

Mrs. M. Vannatter, Virginia.

Tula is the name of a woman visiting the tower in this section and who claims to be a book agent.

She stopped at the Central Hotel, Winchester, and beat the proprietor out of $2.50. From there she came to Mt. Sterling and stopped at the National Hotel, and her bill there was $17.50, and of course she did not have the money either to pay board bill or to get out of town. The Mayor gave an order for money to pay her way to Richmond, Ky. The woman was well dressed and was not lacking in conversational powers. She was searched for firearms by the hotel manager but none of his property was found. Her underclothing had a number of pockets in which was a number of articles. She took occasion to say she was no great admirer of the National's proprietor, and was permitted to go on her way rejoicing.

REV. HOWARD,

The Noted Swindler, Safe in the Penitentiary.

A Columbus, Ohio, special of Jan. 25, says:

"Rev. G. F. B. Howard, a United States prisoner and one of the most notorious swindlers in the world, convicted at Jackson, Tenn., at a cost of $75,000 by the Federal Government, has arrived at the pen, to commence his nine years' sentence."

"His operations extended all over the United States and included the best known methods practiced by men of his ilk. He has been a doctor, lawyer, preacher and editor, and has sailed under a dozen or more aliases."

At Jackson, Tenn., he was indicted on eight bills for fraudulently using the mails to circulate documents relative to his bogus European claim agency, by means of which he reaped a rich harvest before being apprehended. A first trial resulted in a jury disagreement, but on a second he was convicted and sentenced to nine years' imprisonment. He took a leading part in the conduct of his own defense. Lewis Redwine, ex-cashier of the Gate City National Bank at Atlanta, Ga., also arrived today, to serve six years for embezzling $100,000 of the bank's money. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Of Course.

Hon. Attila Cox came up from Louisville this morning to put in a word with the Senators in opposition to Judge Beckner's bill, which restricts the appointment of trust companies as guardians to the county in which the appointment is made.—Frankfort cor. Louisville Times.

Thursday morning was, without question, the coldest for this and many other years. The weather bureau reported 26 degrees below at St. Paul, Pierre, S. D., Moosehead and at Vincent, Minn., and LaCrosse, Wis., all reported 20 degrees below. It was 22 degrees below at Duluth, and 26 degrees below at Port Arthur. Bismark reports 18 degrees below and Huron 15 degrees below.

On last Tuesday at White Oak, Morgan county, the widow of the late W. P. Taubee, formerly Congressman from the Tenth district, was married to William Allen.

Hon. C. R. Brooks will be promoted to the district attorneyship of Oklahoma, notwithstanding the Republican incumbent's protests.

FIRST PRACTICAL TEST.

The first practical test of the great hydraulic tunnel, which has been under construction for the past three years, at Niagara Falls, was made on Thursday morning. When the gates were raised at the entrance leading from the big hydraulic canal to the wheel pit of the Niagara Falls Paper Company's mills, the waters of the upper river rushed through their new tunnel channel to the wheel-houses, where they poured down the penstock of the pit, a huge iron structure thirteen feet in diameter, for a distance of 155 feet, then striking in an upward direction three of the largest turbine wheels ever built and thence passing into the big tunnel and flowing out under the city to the river below the falls, nearly two miles distant from the point of the fall.

This test shows that many thousands have been waiting to see, a practical demonstration of the great scheme for harnessing the terrific power of the Niagara, a scheme which has already cost nearly $4,000,000. The test proved a satisfactory one, and the mill is now in full operation.

An Important Decision.

Judge Charles J. Helm, of the Newport Circuit Court, handed down a decision Friday, the import of which was that all banks which had complied with the old Hewitt law have a contract with the State and are exempted from local taxes, but that banks and trust companies organized since the repeal of Hewitt law may be taxed.

Possible Candidates For 1896.

Gossip About Washington.

In the event that Mr. Cleveland is not a candidate again it is probable that the candidate of the present administration people will be either William C. Whitney or Secretary of State Grosham. If Mr. Whitney wants the support of the administration he can get it, but it is very doubtful whether Mr. Whitney will want it. In that event Grosham will be the man Mr. Cleveland and his friends will put forward. This is not mere gossip, but is undoubtedly the present intention of the administration people. It comes direct from a member of the cabinet. On the other hand Vice President Stevenson, Senator Hill and Senator Gorman are all fighting for the Democratic nomination, and in the convention there may be an administration and an anti-administration fight, just as there was in the last republican convention at Minneapolis.

Mrs. Sallie R. Benton, (wife of Horace Benton, of Clark Co., near the Montgomery Iron) died on Sunday afternoon after a lingering illness of that dread disease, Consumption. She leaves a devoted husband and six children to mourn her untimely departure. Truly our friend Mr. Benton has suffered the heaviest sorrow that can come into his life. She was a noble christian wife and mother who gave the wealth of love to husband and children and had time for deeds of kindness for all who needed her help and kindly words of sympathy. Her funeral will be preached at the Mt. Zion (Methodist) church today at eleven o'clock by Rev. D. P. Ware, after which her remains will be laid to rest in the Cemetery at Winchester.

Corbett King.

The American champion disposed of the English pugilistic leader last Thursday in a play. The third round was more than the Briton could stand, and the last hit of Corbett almost prepared him for the cooling board. We take this occasion to say that Corbett exhibited the brute when he dealt his final blow to his helpless and unconscious antagonist. Corbett's next fight will be with the negro, Jackson. A white man and a negro punching for the world's pugilistic championship, character like water will seek its level. The fight will most likely take place on a foreign shore. John L. Sullivan, the ex-champion, was not surprised at the result but has not decided to meet Corbett again in the ring.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Agriculture and horticulture should be taught in the country schools.

It requires about twenty-five pounds of milk to make a pound of butter.

The number of sheep killed by dogs every year is said to exceed 70,000.

There is a scarcity of sugar beet seed in Europe owing to the drought.

It is said that seedless apples have been produced at Columbia, Oregon.

There are 20,000,000 of coconut trees growing upon the island of Ceylon.

Experienced butter-makers say that too much washing spoils the flavor of butter.

The great food crops of the world are wheat, corn, oats, rye, rice, and potatoes.

In Schleswig-Holstein there are 468 creameries run on co-operative principles.

The current crop of Greece this year is estimated to amount to 30,000,000 pounds.

To make dairying a success, a dairyman must be a worker and a business man.

Well-drained land makes the soil better, and manures act more readily and with better results.

Of late years more improvement has taken place in the dairy than in any other part of farm work.

Freezing injures butter, but if it is to be held long in storage it will be damaged if kept unfrozen.

Alm high and breed upward. There is far less competition at the top, and consequently prices are much better.

The average weight of fleeces produced in the United States has doubled within the last twenty-five years.

Rotation of crops not only aids in maintaining or increasing fertility, but it helps to rid the ground of insects.

Salt mixed with stable manure will hasten decomposition and render it more quickly available for the use of crops.

Study the question of combatting the insect enemies of the orchard, and be ready to prevent their injurious work.

There is no objection to people buying oleomargarine if they want it. The fraud comes in when it is sold as butter.

It is a mistaken idea that starving stock and expending them to cold will harden them. It will either stunt or kill them.

New variety of wheat is reported at Le Roy, N. Y. It is a cross of the Clawson, and is expected to out-yield any other.

A progressive farmer is not afraid to try new methods and new things. If the new is better than the old he adopts it.

There are good dairy cows in all breeds and good dairy cows in all breeds. It is a question of how rather than breed.

Cloves come to us from the Indies and take their name from Latin calvus meaning a nail, to which they have a resemblance.

The cantaloupe is a native of America, and so called from the name of a place near Rome where it was first cultivated in Europe.

This is the time to make plans for the spring work, and to determine to plant only as much land as can be properly cultivated.

The onion was almost an object of worship with the Egyptians 2,000 years before the Christian era. It first came from India.

The exports of corn from the United States during October were 3,375,000 bushels against 4,582,995 bushels for same month last year.

A man who does not know any thing about farming cannot be a successful farmer, unless he works with his money through an experienced man.

It is easy to forget the names of fruit trees. Every tree should be labeled, even where a register is kept. A pine label fastened on with a copper wire is convenient and cheap.

The Royal Institute for fruit and vine culture at Gelsenstein, Germany, has experimented successfully in the use of copperas as a stimulant for plants that lack green color in their leaves. The copperas should be dissolved in water and applied near the roots in early spring.

Sheep are docile, easily handled animals, which will thrive on a great diversity of food and require less grain than any other stock. But all these points become positive disadvantages if the owner goes to the extreme and bestows neither food nor care. Because the sheep ask little is no reason why they should get nothing.

In feeding cattle for growth, roughness can be largely met, but in fattening the ration must consist of a much larger portion of grain, and the grain should be a fattening one. In feeding for growth the cost can be lessened by using more roughness. But whether feeding for growth or to fatten, care should be taken to give a sufficient amount to maintain a steady gain.

In New York City there is a restaurant whose proprietor has made a fortune during the last twenty years off his Welsh rarebit, which are justly famous. The cheese for the rarebit has been furnished all this time by an Ohio farmer, who is said to be satisfied with his part of the bargain. At all events he continues to ship all his produce without the intervention of any middlemen, who are apt to eat up the profits.

HORSE NOTES.

Don't forget to feed generously.

Horses are made gentle by kindness.

See that the colts have comfortable beds.

Developed sires are coming to the front.

The brood mare should be the best obtainable.

There are about 2,000,000 horses in Great Britain.

Study the characteristics of the successful producing dams.

Owners want to learn to sell the first time a fair price is offered.

Feed the best hay to the weanlings which should be broken to harness.

It is safer to exercise youngsters in harness than to turn them loose in the field.

There is a good market for trotters now, but only at prices consistent with the facts in the case.

Colts in training if well cared for, grow better and keep in better health than when running at large.

Some horses are endowed with an amount of intelligence and susceptibility that makes them almost human.

Prices running way into thousands are no longer given for road horses unless the speed and other qualities are of an exceptional character.

First-class fancy animals, suitable for driving and carriage horses, sound and well broken are regarded as scarce and bring good prices.

It is established that a horse whose individuality is strong enough to create a family type will also fix the color with great uniformity.

Many trotting horses, owing either to natural defects of temperament, to bad training or to imperfect preparation are exceedingly difficult to control.

Eat Fruits.

A means of maintaining good health is by the free use of fruits and green vegetables. There may not be very much nourishment in some vegetables and fruits, but there exists in them some food elements not in preserved or dried articles, and these elements are of great use to the body. Thus, often a few barrels of apples placed in the cellar may be the means of keeping the whole family in vigorous health all winter. Cranberries may be expensive, but doctors and medicine are more expensive.—Farmers Home Journal.

Poultry in England.

In a lecture before an English poultry school the instructor, Mr. E. Browne, F. L. S., strongly urged that poultry be given their proper place; they should be regarded as an important part of the live stock farms, and that they should be bred with the same care and managed with the same skill as other stock, and that cottagers should have opportunities of adding to their incomes by poultry keeping. Then he was sure they would get satisfactory results.

The lecturer emphasized the growth of imports, which have risen from $1,500,000 in 1854 to $21,852,240, in addition to $20,000,000 paid to Ireland in 1892 for eggs and poultry alone. It was also shown that in England there is only one fowl for every two acres of cultivated land, whereas in Ireland there are nine fowls for every ten acres under cultivation, capable of considerable increase. The state of affairs upon the Continent was compared with that at home, and it was proved that in several districts of England—as well as in many individual cases—poultry keeping is a profitable industry, so that the old and widely held notions as to the unprofitableness of poultry have no basis in fact.

How to Live a Century.

First, live as much as possible out of doors, never letting a day pass without spending at least three or four hours in the open air.

Second, keep all the powers of mind and body occupied in congenial work. The muscles should be developed and the mind kept active.

Third, avoid excess of all kinds, whether of food, drink or of whatever nature they may be. Be moderate in all things.

Fourth, never despair. Be cheerful at all times. Never give way to anger. Never let the trials of one day pass over to the next.

The period from fifty to seventy-five should not be passed in idleness or abandonment of all work. Here is where a great many men fail. They resign all care or interest in worldly affairs, and rest of body and mind begins. They throw up their business and retire to private life, which in too many cases proves to be a suicidal policy.

During the next period—the period from seventy-five to one hundred years while the powers of life are at their lowest ebb—one cannot be too careful about taking cold. Bronchitis is a most prolific cause of death in the aged. During this last period rest should be in abundance.

Anybody who can follow these directions ought to live to be one hundred years old at least. There is always this comfort, however; if we cannot live up to our ideas always we can at least try our best to do so, and the steady effort will be bringing us constantly nearer them.—Medical Age.

Wilson Howard the notorious desperado of this State and Missouri was hanged at Lebanon Mo., on Friday, the crime for which he suffered the extreme penalty of the law was the brutal murder of a deaf mute named McMichael, in Moline County Mo., in April, 1892. Thursday night Howard confessed to the killing of five men, Will Turner, George Turner, Bob Craig, George Hall and John Bally in the Howard-Turner feud in Harlan County Ky., for the murder of Bob Craig, John D. Howard a brother of Will, is now serving a life sentence in the Kentucky penitentiary and William Jennings is also doing a fifteen year sentence for the murder of John Bally.

The Forum

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

Every great subject is taken up by The Forum when it naturally comes into public attention and is treated by the best authorities, without regard to parties or creeds. It will keep any thoughtful reader informed on the tasks and problems of the time, as no other periodical does.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant an revolutionary reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporaneous activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

Poultry Notes.

It is claimed that a hen while in her prime, if properly cared for, will produce three times her weight in eggs annually.

To test eggs put them in water, and if the large ends turn up they are not fresh. One who claims to know says this is an infallible test.

The poultry house should have windows on the sunny side of the house. The floor should be such that it will not gather and hold moisture.

One acre, says the Indiana Farmer, will supply fifty hens, at less cost for extra feed than for a cow, and the profit, it will be suggested, will be greater than from the cow. Fowls need land for forage, and hens on a range will lay more eggs and fatten more quickly for market than in confinement.

The Poultry Breeder says the cause of fowls eating their feathers is generally want of exercise. When they once get at it it is almost impossible to stop it. But it can be checked by giving mangle wuzzles, raw potatoes, cabbages, apples, and steamed ryeen hay. A sheep's pluck hung up in the house is a good thing.

Against Christian Science.

A Union New York grand jury has recommended legislation against Christian science, which claims to heal by faith. The report condemns Christian science as a menace to public health.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrodsburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Specker, Catawba, Ohio, had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

A Shake up.

Dr. Faid, of Vienna, who has been so successful in predicting earthquakes says that New York will disappear under a tidal wave next July or August, while Florida and California may become islands as the result of a submarine earthquake.—Atlanta Constitution.

That a monthly periodical of such extensive character as The Southern Magazine can be published in the South, with such substantial success as is attending this venture, is the best evidence yet offered that there is a New South in literature at least.

Kirklevington, the handsome country home of Mr. Will Samuels, was the scene of an elegant dining last night, in honor of Miss Virginia Helm, of Covington, the guest of the Misses Goodloe and Miss Annie Johnson, of Mt. Sterling, the guest of Mr. Charles Scott. The dinner which was a sumptuous affair in courses, was served at 9 o'clock, and afterwards the evening was spent in dancing.—Lexington Press.

Colonel Nat Hardin, of Kentucky, was asked if he did not regard a certain fellow here in Washington who had dealt most villainously with him as the most perfectly innominate scoundrel he ever knew. The Colonel studied the question with thoughtful gravity a moment and then, loyally remembering another rogue of even meaner proclivities, finally decided: "No; I'm committed to a fellow out in Ohio."—Washington Post.

The owl is lacerated by all birds. Where one is discovered by other day loving species they subject it to the direct persecution. Owls could accordingly live as a day-loving bird under the present order of things. It would be driven from the earth; and, supposing it took on gradually its thieving habits for a living, it has had to live in darkness rather than light because of these evil deeds. At any rate, the naked fact seems to be that night-working creatures can generally see well in the daylight when they want to.

Two French scientists say that a current of electricity does not always kill when it appears to do so. It simply produces an appearance of death, from which the subject may be restored by artificial respiration. In commenting on this statement the Worcester Gazette suggests that this may be the case with the criminals who are executed by electricity and that they are really killed not by electricity, but by the doctors who afterward make an autopsy on them. It seems that rabbits have been revived after receiving a shock of 2500 volts and twenty amperes, a shock more powerful than is given in the execution of murder.

It was formerly held by hog raisers that the only successful feed for hogs was corn, and hence that industry to be profitable should be confined to the corn belt. But of late years it has been demonstrated that pork fed on the smaller grains is of a superior quality to the corn fed articles and commands the highest market price.

The importance of this discovery is appreciated in the Northwest, where many years of exclusive reliance on growing has withdrawn us from the fertility from the soil, so that Capital it have become less and poor Col. BEE NOTES.

Greek honey ranks ahead of all others.

Excellent wine and vinegar can be made from honey.

Italian bees may be distinguished by their three yellow bands.

Lack of ventilation is the cause of dampness in many hives.

More bees are lost by wintering than by disease or in any other way.

When colonies begin to breed rapidly, supplies will disappear as if by magic.

The best stock build up the earliest, swarm first and are the best to gather honey.

It is said that coils produced by eating honey may be cured by eating a small piece of cheese.

Frames of sealed honey can be given on any warm day to colonies that seem likely to fall short.

Bees will ball their own queen just as quickly as a stranger one when she has stung poison on her.

Canded honey is popular in the English retail markets, where it is bought in slices in preference to fluid honey.

If the bees have been wintered well there will be no need for them to curtail brood-rearing on account of shortage of supplies.

It is said that the useless bee disease can be prevented by watering the bees at home and adding a little salt to the water.

There are 4,500 different species of what are popularly known as wild bees, of which 3,200 are found in North and South America.

The beauty of the comb produced and the honey-gathering qualities of the bee are more important than a bee which is pleasing to the eye.

Producers who ship honey, extracted or comb, should endeavor to prevent leakage, which is a loss to all concerned and an injury to the trade.

Extracted honey requires less skill, but there is more profit in producing the best white comb, for which there is always a demand, and which never suffers from competition with a cheap counterfeit.

In Russia bees are said to winter well in the open air, in spite of the severe cold, when the harvest is good, but after a bad season losses are disastrous. The great requisite for successful wintering there seems to be good food.

A chemical analysis of honey shows that while nectar of flowers undergoes certain chemical changes in the stomach of the bee, no such change occurs after honey is deposited in the comb. Much water, however, remains to be evaporated by live heat and the fanning of the bees, and experiments in evaporating by solar heat under glass promises good results.

Horse Shoeing.

Horse shoeing was introduced into England by William the Conqueror in 1066, and has ever since been regarded as a necessity. Of late years, however, the desirability of doing away with it entirely has been strongly advocated, and there are hundreds of unshod horses used in London or on pavements of stone, wood and asphalt.

It has, however, been found necessary to continue to protect the feet where there is danger of slipping; hence the custom of roughening or sharpening the shoes, which prevails all over the world. This custom existed as far back as the thirteenth century, when we learn, the horse-shoes were turned up at heels, which were sharpened, or chisel-shaped, just as we do in the nineteenth century, showing that in some branches we have made little or no progress.

Baras For Rent.

I desire to rent liberal terms for the season of 1894, the barns at Fair Grounds track, with track privileges. These barns are well built, with hydrants or cisterns. The track is first class and never gets hard, making it one of the best ones in the country for training purposes. Or, will sell 100 acres of land including track and barns.

GEO. W. ANDERSON.
Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Choose Pigs With Black Feet.

Robert Young read a paper at a Missouri Institute, in which he said: The Log for the breeding pen is an entirely different thing from the hog for the pork barrel; that is, the hog that is fat enough for pork is too fat for a breeder, and a hog in condition for breeding is too lean for pork and lard.

At six months of age select those which you wish to keep for breeders by following directions given, and, if possible, select the pigs with solid black feet, as this in the hog as well as in the horse, denotes a strong constitution. Continue to feed the breeders as before mentioned. Pen those you intend for market, and give them all the corn they will eat, and at the end of three months they are ready for market. By this time they should weigh, on an average, 275 pounds, and will sell, on account of being smooth and plump, for top price, and net the feeder a handsome profit. The idea of raising a hog and "putting" him up to fatten after he is big enough is bankrupting the farmer of this country, and yet we hear the very nays who preach this doctrine say, "We know more about farming than half those institute fillers, and we haven't got time to read the nonsense of the agricultural papers."
